

NEW YORK POST

LOG IN

Edition CA NY

Entertainment TV Movies Music Celebrities Awards Theater Ticket Sales

TRENDING NOW

Male G-spot revealed — and if you guessed it's in the butt,...

Lefty TikToker tries to bait ICE agents at JFK airport – see...

One c jet cr rescu

estate down for $213M

By Stacy Brown

Published July 14, 2025, 4:30 p.m. ET

80

Today's Video Headlines

00:00 / 00:52

A New Jersey man who once took Michael Jackson into his family home after the 9/11 terror attacks —and called the pop icon his “second family”— is now being accused of trying to extort $213 million from Jackson's estate.

Frank Cascio, 44, has apparently threatened to go public with claims against the singer which he never voiced while Jackson was alive.

In a petition filed in Los Angeles Superior Court, the Michael Jackson Company and estate co-executors John Branca and John McClain allege that Frank Cascio and unidentified associates are attempting what they describe as a "civil extortion scheme," leveraging the threat of sensational accusations to extract massive payouts.

The Cascio family with Michael Jackson (top left). Family patriarch Dominic Cascio is center (with beard) and his eldest sons Frank and Eddie are pictured top right.

jacksondynasty.net

NEW YORK POST

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

Before you go ...

Before you go ...